

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

NOTICE—The name of the person who ransacked my Community Car, Monday night, as it was parked in front of the city library, is not known and unless they return the car of paint, which they took, they will be severely dealt with. If they will return the car of paint, no questions will be asked. They may keep the wrappings as a reward. But I sure want the paint. Thanks for not taking the car, but it sure made me mad to lose that can of paint. Charles J. Arnold. P. S.—Sorry you did not take the dog collar instead of the paint, as it is badly in need of repair and, anyhow, I have no dog.

These derby hats are getting so common, nowadays, that a new one causes scarcely a ripple. But the SPATS! Have you noticed them? They are sure coming to their own again.

The Weather—Disgustingly seasonable.

Having recently removed to Northwood, I am as yet, unaccustomed to the habits and surroundings and so it is no wonder that I was quite alarmed last night when my attention was attracted by the sound of voices and the baying of dogs right out in my own back yard. Looking out the window and seeing several men carrying lanterns, I at first feared a mob or some similar disturbance, only to learn, upon investigation that some of my neighbors were out on a fox chase. My, it is fine, to live in one of those "back to nature" localities.

Says Judge James J. Hughes—I want to warn those folks who are contemplating a trip to Texas next week that if they permit Charles J. Arnold to be included as a member of the party, they had better be prepared to make a lot of explanations when they get home. For when it comes to representing things as they are not on a trip, this brazen Arnold bird, has Ananias skinned a city block. If there is any possible way of muzzling him it certainly should be done. And believe me, I know.

News Note—Mr. and Mrs. Ott Webb, Marion township, who have been considering a trip to Texas next week, probably will not go. Mr. Webb, in discussing his change in plans, today, said: "Mrs. Webb and myself were seriously considering a trip to Texas, next week, but today, upon learning that Charles J. Arnold was also considering making the trip, I have about given up the idea of going. I made one trip to Texas, with Mr. Arnold and the reports he sent home concerning my conduct almost ruined my local reputation. Rather than take any chances I believe it better that I remain at home this time."

Editor's Note—You are quite right Mr. Webb. I would advise that you remain at home for if I ever get you on another trip to Texas, those getting up at 3 o'clock in the morning stunts of yours during the former trip will be insignificant compared with what I will do to you. You could have been more brief in your statement by simply admitting that you are a coward and afraid to go.

Commissioners Appointments—Glasgow Britton, county commissioner, who recently took office, on Monday announced the appointment of a committee to look after the tearing out of the sidewalks around the court house. The committee as named is Charles J. Arnold, chairman and head wielder of the pick; Clarence Vestal, secretary and head shovel man; Jacob McCurry, treasurer and water boy. The committee met on Tuesday morning at the Harry Woods Livery barn, but on account of the cold weather, it was agreed to delay activities until the weather moderates. In the meantime anyone having any suggestions relative to a method by which any or all members of the committee could be enticed to go to work, should refer them to the president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

I sure wish they would leave my automobile alone. This thing of having it considered public property is getting to be a sort of a bore.

RICKARD HAD PLANNED FIGHT FOR DEMPSEY

HAD PREPARED ANNOUNCEMENT OF COMEBACK PRIOR TO TRIP TO FLORIDA THAT ENDED IN DEATH

MESSAGE IS REVEALED

Opponent of Former Champion To Have Been Selected This Summer in Elimination Bouts

By DAVIS J. WALSH

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The ghastly voice of the dead spoke today and, even while all that mortal of Tex Rickard was being transported to New York for burial, the promoter was giving, by pre-dated announcement, his valedictory to boxing and to the world. Stripped of all superfluities, his last message to the public was this:

"Jack Dempsey is coming back!"

With a relish that seems almost pathetic now, Rickard prepared his announcement of Dempsey's return for the February issue of the ring and arranged for the distribution of these tidings over a country-wide area ten days in advance of their release, which originally was scheduled for Friday. He was as pleased as a child with a new toy as he made a few revisions in the proofs of the story less than an hour before he entered in illness and then death.

He was going to make a pageant of this great event, this promise of his friend and idol to fight again that the heavyweight championship might again become a thing of real significance. He would run a special train to Miami Beach for the official signing, tentatively set for January 27. He would make a fiesta of this ceremony to show that he, of all men in the world, had this day attained a triumph that would abide through the years. Dempsey was going to fight again!

But will he? He certainly had every intention of so doing until that hushed hour on Sunday morning when the flame of "one man's life" winked, fluttered weakly and went out. Dempsey will not sign with Rickard now. For Rickard is dead and, with his passing, went one of Dempsey's motivating forces for the gesture he was to make. That force was his loyalty to the promoter.

Another force, of necessity, was money. Dempsey is only human, like the rest of us, and money is our counsellor. In the words of one of Rickard's closest friends, Dempsey was "offered money that would make any man come back."

A third force was the type of man he was to meet next summer in a final bout for the heavyweight championship. That man would have qualified in two matches, one involving Sharkey and Strubbing at Miami Beach on February 27, and another between Paulino and Heeney later in the season, with the survivors of the two fights to meet in June. It is no star chamber secret that Dempsey feels he has a chance with any of the four mentioned.

Personally, I don't see how Dempsey can fail to fight now, regardless of what he may be saying in his impulsive way. He has promised Rickard that he will fight and I think he may find that such a promise sometimes can be more binding than chains of steel.

"I want to let the readers of 'The Ring' in on a little secret. Jack Dempsey will come back this year."

Can Dempsey ignore the appealing delight with which Rickard was inspired as he sat down to pen those last words on earth?

"One cannot think of Dempsey except in terms of greatness.... He is greater than any fighter now basking in the limelight.... He came with in an ace of regaining the championship in Chicago and, although he lost (Please Turn to Page 2)

SPECULATE ON RECORDS MADE BY ARMY PLANE

HUGE MONOPLANE GLIDES TO EARTH IN CALIFORNIA AFTER 150 HOURS IN AIR

CREW SMILE TRIUMPHANTLY

Aviators Made Last Refueling Contact on Two Motors—Failure of Engines Force Landing

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—(INS)—Aviation enthusiasts were speculating today on just what official records would be allowed the Army plane Question Mark following her epic endurance test which terminated late yesterday after more than 150 hours of continuous flying.

The giant brown and gold plane was forced to give up the monotonous grind of nearly seven days after one of her three motors went "cold" and another began to sputter. It glided to a safe landing, touching Metropolitan Air Field at 2:07 p. m., after being in the air 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds.

The crew of five men smiled triumphantly. They appeared to be in good physical condition, though tired and half deaf from the roar of the motors.

Although the Question Mark unofficially has wiped every endurance mark for all type of aircraft from the skies, it was pointed out that the record flight of 65 hours and 25 minutes, established by two Germans without refueling, probably would stand unimpaired in the official records.

The Question Mark remained aloft more than twice as long, but did so by refueling in the air. The former refueling record of 60 hours and seven minutes, held by two Belgians, of course yielded to the sensational feat of the Army plane.

The Question Mark rolled up the stupendous estimated total of 10,550 miles in her famous six-and-a-half-day cruise. Only part of this mileage, however, will be taken into official consideration, since the great Army plane was forced to fly in circles for long periods instead of traveling from point to point in straight flights.

The five authors of the latest chapter of aviation pioneering are Maj. Carl Spatz, commander; Capt. Ira C. Eaker, chief pilot; Lieuts. Harry A. Halverson and Elwood R. Quesada and Sergt. Roy Hooe.

After "polishing" themselves and resting at a local hotel, they were eager to discuss their thrilling adventure.

Capt. Eaker, who was at the controls for the final glide, gave an interesting account of the last dramatic hours of the flight:

"You know," he said, "that we made our last refueling contacts on only two motors. That left engine had gone stone cold. We had to repair that engine to stay in flight. Old Hooe there clambered out in the wind—and it was cold, I'm here to tell you—but it wouldn't work.

"We were just managing to hold our altitude on those two motors. Then, to stay near the field we had to turn. That turn cost us 150 feet of altitude. We were down to the 2,500 foot level. Hooe was on the catwalk. We were going down.

"So I opened her up—and we didn't rise. Right then and there I realized that we would have to land.

"Then the right motor sputtered. She appeared to be going out but then picked up again. I didn't know whether she was going or not but I told Halverson to watch that field. I didn't want to overshoot it. There was only one thing to do. I was going to do it even if I might find myself overcautious.

"The rest happened quickly. We came down in a long glide. I'd never experienced that sensation before. I (Please Turn to Page 2)

FACTIONS IN SENATE AGREE TO ARBITRATE

RATIFICATION OF KELLOGG-BRIAND APPEARS IMMEDIATE FOLLOWING AGREEMENT IN SENATE

FIGHT ENDS AMICABLY

Treaty Will Reserve Right For America To Enter War at Any Time To Defend Self

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Invoking arbitration as a substitute for their usual parliamentary warfare, administration leaders and the irreconcilables appeared today to have reached an agreement in the Senate for immediate and unconditional ratification of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty.

The two warring factions took a hint from the treaty itself and decided to arbitrate their differences. The outcome was an agreement to have a report filed with the Senate from the foreign relations committee, setting forth the American terms of adherence. The report will embody the very terms which the irreconcilables fought to have approved in their "resolution or explanation."

Thus, a fight, which started as a small edition of the old League of Nations contest, seemed to have ended amicably. The irreconcilables were still insisting that the foreign relations committee's report be sent to all signatory nations and there were indications this request would meet the administration's approval.

The "explanatory" report was drafted by Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, who will submit it to his committee for approval. It will reveal to the world America's views toward the effect of the treaty on American institutions. These terms of adherence will include a declaration that by ratifying the treaty, the United States does not involve itself in any other treaty. It likewise will assert that the United States looks upon all the British and French reservations as applying to America, which means that America has the right to go to war in self-defense at any time, without violating the treaty, and can determine for itself what conditions constitute self defense.

The two opposing leaders—Senators Borah and Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri were hopeful today that the agreement would be carried into effect.

With the treaty fight ended, administration leaders were looking ahead to the far more difficult task of securing enactment of the new cruiser bill. This measure, providing for the construction of fifteen new cruisers and one aircraft carrier, faces much more serious opposition than that which confronted the treaty. There were indications the naval bill would be subjected to a lengthy debate.

About $10 damage was done before firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Funeral services for Henry Allen, age about 55 years, resident of Washington township, who died Saturday at his home 10 miles west of Cloverdale, were held from the Big Walnut Missionary Baptist Church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. ## CHINOOK WIND TO BRING RISE IN TEMPERATURE

FAR NORTHWEST REPORTS GENERAL RISE OF ABOUT 45 DEGREES—UNSETTLED WEATHER TO FOLLOW RISE IN THERMOMETER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 8.—The warning up started by a Chinook wind which yesterday blew on the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains was to extend to Indiana by tonight, according to J. H. Armington, local government meteorologist who predicted that the mercury here would rise to 20 degrees above zero tonight from a low level of 4 above this morning. In Northern Indiana the rise in temperature may be even more pronounced inasmuch as most of the Northern part of the state experienced subzero weather last night.

"It will be unsettled tonight and tomorrow with probably rain or snow in the South portion and snow in the north portion tomorrow," Armington predicted. He said that light snow buries might occur during the day.

"The low pressure distribution from the Northwest was entering the Mississippi Valley causing a rise in temperature and increasing cloudiness," Armington said.

The far Northwest this morning reported a sharp general rise in temperatures, in some cases as high as 45 degrees according to Armington.

Workmen were building a raised platform at one end of the commissioners' room in the Court House Tuesday.

Large Number Attends Missionary Society Meet

An unusually interesting meeting of the Missionary Society of the Christian Church was held with Mrs. B. H. Bruner, Monday at 2:30 P. M. The number attending was surprisingly large considering the number of people who are sick.

Mrs. Jessie Sears conducted the Worship Service using hymn "Hail to the Brightness of Zion's Glad Morning." Worship theme: The Islands shall praise him. Scripture Lesson, Isa. 42:8-16. A number of volunteer prayers were offered for the sick and for our missionary workers.

The topic for the afternoon was "Porto Rico, Jamaica, The Philippine Islands and Japan."

Mrs. John Boyd told of the work we are doing in Porto Rico and Jamaica, she said in part that we had 21 church buildings in Porto Rico up to Sept. 13. On that date a terrific storm swept over the island and completely destroyed all our church buildings except 6 and one of these was entirely unroofed. All of our Missionary buildings were more or less damaged. It will take $50,000 to repair and replace our buildings damaged by the storm.

Jamaica is our oldest Missionary field. The first Missionary work was done there in 1858. It was discontinued in 1868 to be resumed by our C. W. B. M. in 1876.

Work in the Philippine Islands—Mrs. Joe Crosby. This is our richest Missionary field when measured by the growth of churches. We began work there in 1901 and now have a membership of 5,400. We have 45 organized churches and 22 church buildings.

Mrs. Hutcheson gave us a rare treat when she told us of her recent trip to Japan. Her talk was very interesting and instructive. She gave an opportunity to ask questions about Japan and the Japanese. A lively discussion took place at this period. She had a number of articles on display at the meeting which she brought while there. This added greatly to the interest of the meeting. The Society is always grateful to Mrs. Hutcheson for these talks and we hope to hear from her again soon.

During the Fellowship Period the hostess served refreshments.

Newton Girl Becomes Bride of DePauw Man

A lovely wedding at the close of the holiday season was that of Miss Evalyn Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Campbell, and Clifford Paul Miller of Chicago, which took place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride in Newton. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Riley of Battle Ground.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served in the dining room. There was a canopy of rose and white over the table which was centered with a Kewpie bride and groom. Favors were replicas of the centerpiece in miniature. The Misses Hester Kay and Ruth Aydelotte served and assisted in receiving the guests. The young couple left after the dinner for their home at 5351 west Huron street, Chicago.

Mrs. Miller has attended Indiana university and Roosevelt college. The groom has attended DePauw and Northwestern universities and is now assistant secretary-general of the Lions International Club in Chicago. He is a nephew of Fred Kay, Newton merchant, and formerly made his home with him.

SYNOPSIS

Danny Malone, a new patrolman, attracts the attention of Police Commissioner Leonard by an act of bravery in rescuing a man from a runaway car and is assigned to the silk warehouse district where four officers have been killed in a series of bandit raids. Danny's sweetheart, Mary, is employed in the office of Alfred Dayton, Jr., the son of a wealthy silk importer who has been one of the heaviest losers to the bandits, and she promises Jimmy Wells, a newspaper reporter working on the robberies, to help him determine the identity of the bandit leader. Danny's first case, however, is more in finding his wayward brother, Dick, missing for many years, than in running down the silk bandits as he goes to his new post to relieve Patrolman Steiner for the first time.

Danny thanked him and a moment later was alone on the deserted street. Having made his first call he turned around and looked up and down the street. Danny had known it since he was a kid, but he hadn't noticed before that every dark corner was shaded for a gunman and that he couldn't see into any of the doorways until he was level with them.

"Fat chance I'd have if I had my gun on," he murmured.

That last warning had unsettled Danny. This was starker than anything he had thought of, and as he marched slowly down the street, trying each door as he passed, he wondered how long it would be before he'd have to join Strunsky and the rest.

A couple of hours passed and the only excitement was the periodic appearance of the motorcycle patrol. This gang of picked men patrolled the downtown section. The officer driving was protected from attack by a screen of bullet-proof glass and a similar screen, pierced for the machine gun, protected the man in the side car. They were comforting to Danny; they'd even the fight if they got there in time.

Danny said as much, and the youngster on the machine grinned his reply.

"We're never more than five blocks away. Half a minute from the time you whistle."

Okay, thought Danny, but a man has time to die quite often in half a minute.

Shortly before ten o'clock a Ford coupe drove into the street and parked by the call box. As Danny came up and made his call he expected to find a member of the Police Force inside. Then he saw that the car carried no police badge and better still the head of Jimmy Wells sticking out of the window.

"Give me permission to park, officer, an' I've got an earful for you."

"Okay with me," smiled Danny. "Say, Malone," Jimmy went on, "I don't know whether you know it, but I'm covering the silk case for the World and we can work together and maybe get somewhere."

"Say, I suppose I've got you to thank for being here, but you know as well as I do that I can't help you any."

"I'm not asking you to help me. I'm going to help you, an' between us both I'm going to have a story that'll stand the gang on its ears. Hell of a night, ain't it?"

Jimmy was sure of his welcome, but something was worrying Danny.

"How did you know I was here?" he asked.

"Easy," replied the other. "I had a talk with old man Leonard just after you and McGuire left, and he told me. Say, I want to tell you that the old man's mad. I've been running stories telling what the other side's going to do, an' I want to give you guys a chance to say something."

"Leonard didn't say much, but you can lay your rock bottom dollar that if he can clean up these robberies, they are going to get cleaned up. Got any ideas on it?"

Danny was friendly by now, and eager to talk. Jimmy didn't seem to mind being wiled, and though it was against the rules, Danny knew that he would be allowed special privileges on that beat and that no one would kick at Jimmy accompanying him.

"No, I haven't," he answered, "but—"

"Well, I have," broke in Jimmy, "and here's where I start helping. I know a lot about young Dayton and he's a wild bird. I've seen him on parties where the bill must have run to thousands. The other day I met his old man, an' I'm willing to gamble that he don't get the baby no ten year old business would stop me. What the heck's eating you anyway?"

"The girl can look after herself."

But now Danny had grown so used to him that it seemed natural to tell him the whole story. He did, and Jimmy's scorn was worthy of a better cause.

"Why, you poor sap," he barked, "that kid's proved himself unworthy of so much attention. Find him if you can, but grab all the happiness that's coming to you and for Pete's sake ask that little girl the question that she's dying to hear."

"Yes, you sap," he went on, as Danny expostulated, "she's more in love with you than you are with her. . . if that's possible."

"Guess you're right, Jimmy," it was Jimmy now, "I'm going out with her Saturday afternoon, maybe I'll ask her then."

"You'd better, or someone'll be beating you to it. If I thought it would do any good I'd try it myself. But to get back to business. Do you know that Dayton guy? No. Well, give us a light an' I'll show you his photo."

"What I want you to do is to watch for him, and if he comes around here, take good care that you see everything that he does. My guess is that they plan on one more big cleanup and you can bet your bottom dollar that it will be on the Dayton warehouse. He may come down here to see how the ladies and if he does I think it'll be a tip off that they mean action. Tell the kid to watch him too, will you?"

"Okay, I sure will. See you tomorrow night," replied Danny and Jimmy got into his Ford and disappeared.

Alone again, Danny had time to think things over. If what Jimmy guessed was right, and it certainly sounded better than any of the police theories, there was pretty certain to be all kinds of hell popping in that vicinity. Well, he'd be ready when it came.

At the corner of Clay street was one of those places that seem to have defied the edict that should have made them a thing of the past. Mulligan's Bar was still running and running wide open. It was nothing to do with Danny unless something out of the way occurred, so he was surprised when someone called him as he passed the swinging doors.

"Awful night, officer," someone said.

"Worst in a long time," Danny replied.

"Come in an' have a nip, you'll feel better. The guy what had this beat before used to take his nip every night, an' if you want yours, you're more than welcome."

"Guess that lets me out, Mulligan," for it was the owner himself. "I don't use it on duty, but I won't hold it against you," growled Mulligan, somewhat put out, "but I'm telling you you're more than welcome."

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD

SOCIAL WORKERS URGE CURB FOR CHILD CRIMINAL

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Instead of concentrating their efforts solely on the apprehension of known criminals, the police of America's big cities should "get at the source" by devoting a great deal of their time to preventing juvenile delinquents from continuing in the erroneous path of wrong doing.

This, in effect, is the collective opinion of more than 300 men and women social workers who gathered here recently to discuss ways and means of bettering the living conditions of urban children.

Revolting Conditions

The convention revealed through simple factual statements, that thousands of city youngsters, particularly in New York, exist amid sanitary and moral conditions well nigh revolting.

Case history accounts were given of children left to run the streets because they had nowhere else to go who became juvenile gangsters and eventually wound up their careers behind the bars of a prison or within the grimly silent walls of the executioner's chamber.

William Edward Hall, president of the Boys' Club Federation, who was one of the speakers, disclosed that according to statistics every boy in the City of New York when he reaches the age of 16 has at least a 1 to 3 chance that his name will grace the police records before he reaches his majority. During the year of 1927, Mr. Hall also said, exactly 37,505 boys were haled before the courts in New York for violations of the law.

Col. Arthur Woods, former police commissioner, was the chief adherent to the belief that the police force should exercise its powers to prevent boys from becoming criminally inclined.

Describe Experiments

He described an experiment in his administration in which the police took records of 1,200 boys who seemed in danger of going wrong and tried to keep them away from delinquency rather than arresting them after they had fallen into it.

"There is a great unusual social power in the police force of every American city," Col. Woods said. "The police reach every quarter of the city, know every one, are experts in human nature because they see so much of it. It is a power practically untapped. Working in conjunction with benevolent organizations, the police could dam this great stream of boys drifting into crime."

MANY YOUNG WOMEN ENTER CRIME FIELD. NEW REPORT SHOWS

By International News Service

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 8.—"The Lady sinner list." That's the latest chart to be added to the data of Clarence Morrill, state criminologist expert. It is the sheet on which are written the names of the women and girls who think the world is their oyster and don't care how they open it.

It's a fast growing list, too, Morrill points out, and the majority of games on it are those of women from 25 to 35 years who are, or have been, engaged in the simple occupation of writing checks which are sure to come back from the bank marked "No funds."

"They're not all single women by any means," declared Morrill. "Peraps half or more of the professional 'paper hangers' are married, according to our list, and more surprising

THE VONCASTLE

Von Stroheim Is Strongest In His Latest Masterpiece

Score another win for Erich Von Stroheim! One of the most important motion pictures of the season was revealed at the Voncastle Theatre yesterday, where Paramount's special production, "The Wedding March," opened an engagement which will probably prove all too short to accommodate the crowds which will wish to see it. For the picture, in all its aspects, is remarkable. It is gorgeous and spectacular in parts; it is produced with all the old-time Von Stroheim realism and attention to detail; it has a story of unusual scope and power; and it presents an exceptional cast which is headed by the dashing Von Stroheim himself.

"The Wedding March" tells the story of "Prince Nicki" who is a lieutenant in Emperor Franz Josef's famous cavalry regiment, the Life Guard Mounted; and the action takes place in and near Vienna in the hectic days just preceding the outbreak of the World War.

most of them are nearing the supposedly discreet years of nearly middle-age."

There are three times as many women criminals entered on California's blacklist this year as four years ago, while forgery and fraudulent check cases nearly kept that same ratio.

While the most of the offenders are "penwomen," the second favorite for girls is shoplifting. This, the state criminologist stated, is confined mostly to the larger cities. The merchant and storekeeper in the smallest hamlet, though, are not immune to the sting of worthless paper, and in fact, are the most numerous victims of the feminine passers of souvenir paper.

Whereupon the judge fined Johnstone $40.00 and sentenced him to serve at the state penal farm at the rate of $1.00 a day until the $45.00 damage at the luncheon was paid.

ASPIRIN SPREE LANDED MAN ON STATE FARM

HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 8.—(INS)—An aspirin spree landed Joe Johnstone in jail here and the questionable distinction of being the first Hammond to be arrested, convicted, fined and sentenced in 1929.

When arraigned before Judge Joseph Todd, Johnstone told the court that he became intoxicated by "taking" two aspirin tablets.

Johnstone couldn't explain, however, how his aspirin jag caused him to pick up a salt shaker from a dining table at the Dixie lunch room here and hurl it through a plate glass window.

Whereupon the judge fined Johnstone $40.00 and sentenced him to serve at the state penal farm at the rate of $1.00 a day until the $45.00 damage at the luncheon was paid.

Henceforth Johnstone will not welcome a New Year with aspirin.

Famous Stage Star

THE modern way to diet! Light a Lucky when fattening sweets tempt you. That's what thousands of lovely women are doing—successfully. The delicately toasted flavor of Luckies makes them a delightful alternative for fattening sweets. Toasting does it. Toasting removes the impurities and improves the flavor of the finest tobacco. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Men who pride themselves on keeping fit discovered this long ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition—many prominent athletes have testified to this fact. They discovered, too, that Luckies don't irritate the throat—a fact subscribed to by 20,679 physicians.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

CENTRAL FIVE PLAYS DEPAUW HERE TONIGHT

INDIANAPOLIS BASKETBALL
SQUAD HOLDS FINAL WORKOUT
MONDAY AFTERNOON—MOUNTZ
OF DEPAUW WILL NOT PLAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 8.—The final drill of the Indiana Central basketball squad in preparation for its game with Depauw tonight was held yesterday afternoon in the Central gym. Coach Harry C. Good, stressed defensive play throughout the practice session, sending in a reserve team which used Depauw offensive plays against the varsity. The men who formed the varsity yesterday afternoon probably will start the game tonight. Capt. Pete Bailey and Abe Bailey worked at forward, Rider at center and Humbert and Beneman at guards.

The men who will make the trip to Depauw include P. Bailey, A. Bailey, Bright, Nawlings, Humbert, Inman, Lemme, Sackmire, Breneman, Babbitt, Smith and Demmay.

Depauw will face the strong Indiana Central five in Bowman gym here tonight minus the services of "Red" Mountz, stellar center. Mountz has been unable to practice since the Purdue tilt last Tuesday due to a badly sprained ankle.

Coach "Tubby" Moffett has shifted Stone from forward to the pivot job for the clash with the Greyhounds. Ragsdale, a sophomore and former Washington high school star, is working in Stone's place as running mate to Capt. Loveless. Crawley a Greencastle flash and Stunkel will hold down the guard positions.

CLINTON FALLS

There will be preaching services here at the M. P. church by Rev. Hanger, Sunday morning and evening.

There is quite a lot of sickness around, caused by the flu.

Mrs. Irene Surber and daughters spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. Eula Staggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bettis spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. George Pierce.

Dr. Veach of Bainbridge was called to see Earl the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller.

SEES SISTER TWICE IN FORTY-ONE YEARS

GARY, Ind., Jan. 8.—(INS)—Although he is 41 years old, Peter Emershy has just seen his older sister for the second time in his life.

The sister, who is now 58 years old, left her home at Scranton, Penna., one year before Peter's birth and entered a convent.

The first time Peter saw his sister was when he was 29 years old. Then he was permitted only to spend 30 minutes with her.

The sister is now in the convent of the Sisters of Christian Charity in Chicago, Ill.

Although Greencastle lost considerable basketball prestige by losing to Wiley last week the Tiger Cubs are preparing for the Elwood tilt Friday with undaunted courage. Wiley probably will upset several other teams in the near future, including Brazil.

Bedford the mighty, home of the Stone City boys, and victors over Mitchell, Martinsville, Logansport, Washington, Vincennes twice, Crowfordsville, Seymour, Bloomington, Muncie and Columbus, will furnish the biggest thrill of the season for Greencastle fans when they face the Tiger Cubs on the local floor a week from Friday night.

Only Franklin has taken the measure of Bedford and this occurred when several Stone City regulars were left at home for insubordination.

Potential champions of 1929! Raised to impossible heights by the magic pen of Mary Beth Plummer, former Depauw student, now writer of "Follow Ups" in the Bedford Mail, the Stone City five has been sweeping all opposition before it in a drive toward the coveted title of State Champions of Indiana.

Somebody held us. We're getting too far ahead of ourselves. The Cubs must first defeat Elwood on the Elwood floor Friday night before they will again be recognized as a worthwhile opponent in Indiana basketball.

H. C. Warren, International News Service writer, said Monday:

The results of the week-end basketball jousts in Indiana high school circles strengthened the positions of some of the favorites, left others hopelessly buried in the maelstrom of defeat and brought some heretofore unknown teams into the spotlight. As the results of last week's jousts, the following seem to be the ten ranking teams in Indiana high school circles in the order mentioned:

- (1) Bedford.
- (2) Muncie.
- (3) Columbus.
- (4) Horace Mann of Gary.
- (5) Frankfort.
- (6) Martinsville.
- (7) Technical of Indianapolis.
- (8) Washington.
- (9) Franklin.
- (10) Delphi.

Frankfort celebrated its re-entry in the Indiana high school athletic competition by defeating Lebanon and almost scoring a victory over Muncie, the state champions. Muncie finally won out of a 40 to 29 score, but Coach Everett Case's boys caused several hundred cases of near heart failure in the audience of 5,000 Muncie fans and 500 Frankfort supporters, before the bearcats broke up the Frankfort stalling game and spurred to a one-point margin of victory.

Tonight the Depauw Tigers will face Indiana Central of Indianapolis in the local gymnasium. After a week's rest the Methodists should have little difficulty with the visiting quintet.

Other Putnam County games this week will include the following:

Wednesday Night
Roachdale at Bainbridge.

Friday Night
Roachdale at Waynetown.

Filmore at Reelsville.

Belle Union at Cloverdale.

Rockville at Russellville.

Greencastle at Elwood.

Saturday Night
Russellville at Bloomington.

Bainbridge at Jefferson (Lafayette).

A glance at the above schedule of games reveal that Bainbridge and Roachdale will at last get together to compare strength after a couple of postponements caused by illness among team members or smallpox epidemics.

Bainbridge will break into the "Big Time" when they tackle Jeff of Lafayette. If they can keep the Jeffersonites from massacring them, or night, 41 to 28. This is not so strange when one considers the Tiger Cubs were playing the third hard game in four days and were minus Jimmy Tobin, probably the state's best guard. Jimmy failed to make the grade in an English exam.

Scores of sweethearts. An expert woman-chaser to whom each pretty girl is a new plaything. And beautiful Fay Wray. Simple-hearted, innocent. Her life poverty-stricken, drab. To her, Von Stroheim is the glittering, handsome prince of her dreams, awakening a love she has never before known.

"Wiley is also credited with playing the best game of any team this season. The Red Streaks led the best in years. A 27 to 22 victory over Rushville followed Saturday night.

"Say, it would be a lot of fun to beat Bainbridge, the team that beat Coach Adams' great record last year, but Bainbridge is no slouch this season, despite the loss of its three main stars, and is improving night along."

SEASON FOR HUNTING RABBITS ENDS JAN. 10

The open season for rabbit hunting will close Thursday, January 10, after that it will be unlawful to kill wild game of any kind excepting for bearing animals, such as fox, opossum, raccoon, skunk, mink, and muskrat, which may be trapped until February 10.

The Indiana legislature in 1927 fixed the bag limit for rabbits at ten, making it unlawful for any one to kill more than ten rabbits in any one day.

The open season for rabbits is from October 1 to January 10, for squirrels from August 1 to October 31. There is no closed season for red or pine squirrels, which may be killed with impunity any time and anywhere. The open season for quail is from November 10 to December 1 with a daily bag limit of fifteen.

MOTHER REELSVILLE MEN DEAD AT HARMONY HOUSE

Catherine Timberman, wife of Robert Timberman, died last night shortly after 12 o'clock at the home at Harmony, after about two weeks illness of complications.

Mrs. Timberman was a daughter of Thomas and Alice Dwyer who came here from Ireland many years ago and settled near Saline City, Clay county, where Mrs. Timberman was born 60 years ago. Since growing into womanhood she has spent most of her life in Knightsville and Harmony and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends in that community. She was reared under the teachings of the Catholic church and kept that faith throughout her entire life to the end.

Mrs. Timberman had not been in good health for the past few years and was stricken with influenza about two weeks ago which resulted fatal at midnight last night.

Besides the husband she leaves two sons, John and Hugo, both of Reelsville; also three brothers, Mr. Dwyer of Terre Haute; John of the city, and Pat of Knightsville.—Bride Times.
